About Allahabad

Allahabad is a city in Uttar Pradesh, North India. Triveni sangam, the confluence of the Ganges, Yamuna and "Invisible" Saraswati rivers, is considered holy by Hindus. Near it is the Allahabad Fort built by Mughal emperor 'Akbar' in the 16th century. In the fort there are ancient sandstone, Ashoka Pillar, the underground Patalpuri Temple and a sacred Banyan tree.

Invitation to Delegates

Dear Colleagues, It gives me immense pleasure to invite you to "CODFICON 2017", the 7th annual conference of the Contact and Occupational Dermatoses Forum of India. Tackling contact dermatitis in clinical practice can be both challenging and extremely gratifying. It will be our earnest endeavour to provide you a feast of knowledge that you can carry home and utilize for the benefit of your patient. We are trying our best to make this event informative, interesting and enjoyable. Please help us in organizing the event smoothly and register at the earliest as we can accommodate only 250 delegates.

With regards,

DR. P.K. SRIVASTAVA
